RG 148 – Platforms that are Managed Investment Schemes and ASIC Class Order 13/762	REs must have a written policy in place for dealing with Corporate Actions. In particular: RG 148.50: Platforms require a voting policy that details their policy on company and scheme resolutions. The policy must be disclosed in the PDS and made available to investors free of charge. RG148.56: Specific voting requirements for IDPS-Like Schemes.

Key Principles

Ventura recognises that corporate actions provide valuable rights that should be managed and exercised in the best interests of VMAPS investors as a whole.

Ventura will act in the interests of investors as a whole at scheme level and will not act on the instructions of individual investors in relation to corporate actions.

As VMAPS is a custodial holdings structure, Ventura will adopt a neutral position and abstain from voting on company or scheme resolutions and will not allow individual investors to exercise voting rights in relation to securities held through VMAPS.

Corporate Actions Policy

Policy Background

VMAPS is an IDPS-Like managed investment scheme that allows for investment in a variety of professionally managed portfolios of securities. These securities may include shares in companies and units in managed funds that may have voting rights attached to them. These investments are held by an appointed custodian, on behalf of investors.

Whilst individual investors retain beneficial interest in the investment options of their own portfolio, investors are not the registered owner of any of the investments in their portfolio, and cannot participate in meetings of investors, nor have any voting rights.

Disclosure has been provided within the product disclosure statement for VMAPS, and application forms to inform investors and their authorised representative of restrictions in this regard. By signing the application form, investors are taken to have accepted the consumer warnings provided, acknowledging voting rights will not be available to them when investing through VMAPS.

Receipt of Communications

Ventura, through its external custodian will receive all communications relating to corporate actions affecting individual securities held in investor accounts through VMAPS.

Corporate actions notifications may be provided to VMAPS model managers through the Administrator's model management interface.

Corporate actions notifications will not be provided to individual investors within VMAPS.

Voting

Ventura will act in the best interests of VMAPS investors as a whole and will consider whether it is in the best interests of VMAPS investors to vote on company or scheme resolutions. To satisfy the collective interests of investors within a custodial holdings structure, Ventura will generally adopt a neutral or impartial position and will not vote at meetings of holders of securities.

VMAPS

Ventura may exercise its discretion to vote in certain or exceptional circumstances. Where Ventura exercises its discretion to vote, any vote will reflect the interests of the scheme as a whole, without regard to any single investor's circumstances.

Ventura will not accept instructions from investors to vote on company or scheme resolutions.

Receipt of dividends and dividend reinvestment plans

Ventura will generally elect to receive dividends and distributions in cash, which will be credited to the cash holding component of each individual investor's account.

Model manager discretions

Ventura expects model managers to act on corporate actions in order to achieve stronger investment outcomes over the long term. Ventura may accept instructions from a model manager in relation to corporate actions other than proxy voting.
