COMMENTARY

Concerns over the prospect of higher inflation and the onset of conflict in Ukraine saw most equity markets fall this quarter. While these are significant issues for investors to digest, it is, in many ways, as much about the uncertainty of what may or may not happen, as it is about the ultimate outcome. In this regard, all equity sectors have increased since the onset of the conflict, with most developed equity markets having now recouped more than half of their losses since the year began.

After more than a decade of worrying that inflation has been too low, the global economy is now faced with the prospect of inflation being too high, given the increased price of oil, industrial metals and soft commodities brought about by the Ukraine situation. Russia and Ukraine account for 30% of global wheat production; while the withdrawal of up to 10% of world oil supply and nearly twice that in gas, plus the large supply gap in industrial metals has seen core inflation spike to over 7.5% in the US and 4.5% in Australia. Bond market reaction has been swift, with bond yields rising around the world (US 10-year bond yields have risen by around 1%). The expectation of a cash rate increase has been fulfilled in the US, and speculation continues about similar monetary tightening in other developed nations. The dilemma for central banks is to curtail inflation but, at the same time, to not stall the economic recovery as a result of raising rates.

The portfolio has held up well in what has been a challenging investment environment, with its global energy positions performing strongly. The Investment team made the decision to trim some energy exposure, as prices of oil and gas (in particular) rose. The proceeds have been redeployed into banks, which look set to benefit from the rising interest rate environment. Further, they've broadened global exposures to US stocks, buying into valuations not seen for some time. Taking advantage of better value (and yields) in bonds, the team have also increased bond exposures.

While investment market volatility is always expected, it's in volatile times that investors should remind themselves of their investment objectives and time horizon, especially as Morningstar's valuation-driven approach remains disciplined at this time.

Morningstar's Investment Approach

Morningstar's disciplined investment approach delivers independent, cost effective and holistic solutions for our clients – helping them reach their financial goals. This long-term, valuation driven approach is underpinned by an emphasis on preserving capital and undertaking meticulous comprehensive fundamental analysis of global asset classes and securities.

Portfolio Construction Process

When building diversified portfolios to achieve long-term real returns (after fees and taxes), a dynamic approach to asset allocation improves the outcome for investors. A total-portfolio-perspective approach that seeks to adjust the portfolio when the reward for risk changes, and measures risk in a more meaningful way to preserve capital for investors, is expected to provide a more stable and improved path to wealth accumulation. This approach is often contrarian to market consensus with patience and discipline provides significant investment opportunities.

Security Selection

Buying shares of superior businesses and allowing them to compound over time is the surest way to create wealth in the stock market. The long-term fundamentals of businesses, such as cash flow, competition, economic cycles, and stewardship, are the primary focus because history has shown that market sentiment is fleeting, momentum can quickly reverse, and the herd is sometimes a dangerous crowd. Occasionally, this approach causes our investment models to appear out of step, but willingness to be contrarian is an important source of outperformance.
