

VENTURA MORNINGSTAR DIVERSIFIED INCOME MODEL

February 2025

COMMENTARY

Overview

- Portfolios sit at around neutral to growth assets. Within growth assets, we have generally favoured international equities over Australian equities as we see a broader opportunity set within international equities. That said, divergence in the opportunity set across sector and regional equity assets has continued to narrow, which has resulted in our growth asset position broadening out and becoming less divergent relative to the SAA benchmark. One area where divergence remains is within Emerging Markets equities, where we see reasonable divergence in valuation implied returns within the region. Within Emerging Markets equities, the portfolios holds active overweight positions in China and Korea.
- In relation to fixed income assets, we have sought to add diversification as government bond yields have risen. For multi-asset portfolios with higher exposures to defensive assets, this has meant adding greater return diversity within fixed income assets by increasing Australian credit exposure to complement existing duration linked exposures. We remain cautious on global credit given relatively low option-adjusted spreads and have pared back our directly held exposure to high yield assets, as we wait for better valuation opportunities to arise.
- The environment continues to remain uncertain as central banks face the challenges of trying to curb inflation while avoiding recession. We cannot predict when and by how much major central banks are likely to shift interest rates, so we can only look to our guiding principle of 'valuation' to help us navigate markets and build robust portfolios
- ground against the JPY and GBP. However, given the size of the US market, broadly speaking, hedged currency exposure outperformed unhedged positions

Portfolio Construction Process

When building diversified portfolios to achieve long-term real returns (after fees and taxes), a dynamic approach to asset allocation improves the outcome for investors. A total-portfolio-perspective approach that seeks to adjust the portfolio when the reward for risk changes, and measures risk in a more meaningful way to preserve capital for investors, is expected to provide a more stable and improved path to wealth accumulation. This approach is often contrarian to market consensus with patience and discipline provides significant investment opportunities.

Security Selection

Buying shares of superior businesses and allowing them to compound over time is the surest way to create wealth in the stock market. The long-term fundamentals of businesses, such as cash flow, competition, economic cycles, and stewardship, are the primary focus because history has shown that market sentiment is fleeting, momentum can quickly reverse, and the herd is sometimes a dangerous crowd. Occasionally, this approach causes our investment models to appear out of step, but willingness to be contrarian is an important source of outperformance.
